for
Foster Homes

1999

Ministry for Children and Families

We are pleased to present these new protocols for dealing with issues and concerns about foster homes. The protocols have been developed in partnership by the British Columbia Federation of Foster Parent Associations and the Ministry for Children and Families.

Our goal in revising the previous protocols is to provide clearer direction on the actions, responsibilities and rights of everyone involved in investigations, quality of care reviews, and issue resolution. We hope that the new protocols will make it easier for both ministry staff and foster parents to deal with difficulties that arise in foster homes in a way that strengthens foster care placements wherever possible.

We thank the Protocol Review Committee and the many foster parents and social workers who contributed their suggestions on earlier drafts of these protocols, and we welcome your suggestions for improvements to future versions of these protocols.

Introduction

The primary objective of the Ministry for Children and Families and the British Columbia Federation of Foster Parent Associations (BCFFPA) is to carry out the public's trust that those with responsibility for children in care will act in the child's best interest, for the child's benefit, and with the child's safety and well-being as paramount considerations.

To further this objective, the ministry and the BCFFPA have agreed to use the protocols in this document whenever an issue or concern arises about a foster home. The protocols establish a joint understanding of the processes, procedures, and roles and responsibilities of ministry staff and foster parents that apply in three types of situations that arise in foster care:

Investigation: When the ministry receives a report that a child in a foster home has been or is likely to be abused or neglected	Protocol for Investigating Reports of Abuse or Neglect in Foster Homes
Quality of Care Review: When there is a concern about the quality of care a child is receiving in a foster home that does not otherwise involve abuse or neglect	Protocol for Reviewing Quality of Care Concerns in Foster Homes
Issue Resolution: When a service issue between ministry staff and foster parents requires formal resolution	Protocol for Resolving Issues Between Ministry Staff and Foster Parents

Guiding Principles

- The safety and well-being of the child is the paramount consideration at all times.
- If, during the review of a quality of care concern or resolution of a service issue there is any concern that a child has been or is likely to be abused or neglected, the ministry must assess the concern and, where necessary, investigate.
- It is recognized that the Director's delegate has final decision-making authority with regard to the placement of children.
- Foster parents are entitled to support and guidance when issues or concerns arise about their foster home.
- The working relationship between foster parents and delegated staff is characterized by mutual respect, trust, honesty, and fairness.
- A spirit of collaboration and teamwork, and a commitment to problem solving are recognized as essential conditions for resolving differences.
- Information may be shared among delegated staff, and with police or community resources when it is necessary to ensure the safety or well-being of a child.
- There is a commitment to clear communication by all parties, while recognizing that delegated staff may be constrained by legislation from full disclosure of information about an investigation.
- All actions under these protocols are carried out in an objective and timely manner.
- Where resources are available, translation services should be obtained to assist participants who have difficulty understanding spoken or written English.

- All actions under these protocols are to be carried out in a manner which is sensitive and respectful of the aboriginal culture and heritage for those persons directly affected by these protocols.

Approach and Rationale

The protocols for foster homes fit within the new approach to foster care set out in the following documents: Standards For Foster Homes, Practice Standards for Guardianship, and Practice Standards for Child Protection.

In common with these other documents, Protocols for Foster Homes is meant to clearly define the expectations of both foster homes and delegated staff in ensuring a quality foster care system. They recognize that the success of foster care relies on a strong, cooperative partnership between foster parents and delegated staff, which in turn relies on clearly defined roles, timelines, procedures, and responsibilities. They also recognize that children in foster home care benefit most where foster parents and delegated staff work with each other, regarding all aspects of a child's care, in a spirit of mutual respect.

Each of the three protocols follows its own set of stages. However, all three are based on a common model:

- Delegated staff assess the issue or concern to determine whether and what further action is needed.
- Actions described in these protocols may not occur or may be delayed if they jeopardize a criminal or child protection investigation.
- Delegated staff meet with the foster parents in person to exchange relevant information and to discuss the issue or concern.
- Delegated staff gather any information required about the issue or concern and reach a decision, consulting with or interviewing the foster parents as appropriate.
- The foster parents are advised in person of decisions or plans directly affecting them or children placed with them.
- The foster parents can ask for a review of decisions or plans affecting their foster home or a child placed with them.
- Following each protocol investigation or quality of care review, delegated staff, relevant management staff, and the BCFFPA examine the general findings (identifying information about the child and foster parents to be deleted) and make recommendations to prevent similar problems from arising with other foster parents.
- The ministry collects information about the use of each of the three protocols and, with the BCFFPA, develops an annual analysis, report, and action plan to prevent similar problems with the care of children in foster homes province-wide.

This more responsive and systematic approach to dealing with problems in foster care is intended to prevent the situations in which concerns and issues arise and, in doing so, to reduce the number of times these protocols need to be initiated.

I. Protocol for Investigating Reports of Abuse or Neglect in Foster Homes

Foster parents and the Ministry for Children and Families share responsibility for meeting the public's expectations about the quality of care children receive in foster homes. The commitment of foster parents to these expectations is set out in the Code of Ethics of the British Columbia Federation of Foster Parent Associations (BCFFPA). For ministry staff, these expectations are mandated by law under the Child, Family and Community Service Act.

Primary among these expectations is the safety and well-being of children in care. Consequently, whenever a report is received concerning the abuse or neglect of a child in care, the Director has a duty to assess the information and determine if an investigation is required.

An investigation MUST occur whenever a protection manager determines that a child in care has been, or is likely to be, abused or neglected in a foster home, as defined in Section 13 of the Child, Family and Community Service Act (substituting the word caregiver for parent where appropriate).

When a child needs protection: Section 13 of the Child Family and Community Service Act
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• if the child has been, or is likely to be, physically harmed by the child's parent</li><li>• if the child has been, or is likely to be, sexually abused or exploited by the child's parent</li><li>• if the child has been, or is likely to be, physically harmed, sexually abused or sexually exploited by another person and if the child's parent is unwilling or unable to protect the child</li><li>• if the child has been, or is likely to be, physically harmed because of neglect by the child's parent</li><li>• if the child is emotionally harmed by the parent's conduct</li><li>• if the child's development is likely to be seriously impaired by a treatable condition and the parent refuses to provide or consent to treatment</li></ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• if the child is deprived of necessary health care</li><li>• if the child's parent is unable or unwilling to care for the child and has not made adequate provision for the child's care</li><li>• if the child is or has been absent from home in circumstances that endanger the child's safety or well-being</li><li>• if the child's parent is dead and adequate provision has not been made for the child's care</li><li>• if the child has been abandoned and adequate provision has not been made for the child's care</li><li>• if the child is in the care of a director or another person by agreement and the child's parent is unwilling or unable to resume care when the agreement is no longer in force.</li></ul>

Note that at any time, foster parents or a specialized residential resource contractor may request a review by the Ombudsman of any matter dealt with under this protocol.

Application of the protocol

This protocol applies whenever delegated staff receive a report that a child has been or is likely to be abused or neglected in a foster home. The protocol pertains to foster homes approved by a director designated under Section 91 of the Act where the caregiver resides in the care setting and has no more than one full-time equivalent employee. These foster homes include all sub-contracted foster homes, and those parent-model group homes and parent-model specialized residential resources that meet these criteria.

If an investigation follows a report about an individual child, the investigating social worker will follow the normal child protection investigative process for other children in the foster home who appear to be at risk.

The investigation of a report of abuse or neglect of a child in care follows the procedure set out in the ministry's Practice Standards for Child Protection. In accordance with that procedure, a child is not moved from a foster home until an immediate safety assessment is done and less disruptive measures have been considered by the investigating child protection social worker.

Major roles and responsibilities

The roles and responsibilities of ministry staff and representatives of the BCFFPA are described in detail on pages 8-16. The following is an overview of the major roles and responsibilities in a protocol investigation.

Protection manager

The protection manager is in charge of the investigation. The main responsibilities of the protection manager are to:

- receive and assess the report and decide if this protocol applies
- coordinate the investigation
- determine any action needed to ensure the safety and well-being of any children in the home
- determine if the child can remain in or be returned to the home
- inform the foster parents in writing of the commencement of an investigation, the results of the investigation, and decisions affecting the foster parents
- in the case of foster parents who are in a legal relationship with a specialized residential contractor, also inform the contractor in writing of the commencement of an investigation, the results of the investigation, and decisions affecting the foster parents or the contractor

Investigating child protection social worker

The investigating child protection social worker is responsible for all aspects of the investigation, from commencement to conclusion. The main responsibilities of the investigating child protection social worker are to:

- consult and share information with his or her supervisor, the protection manager, the resource social worker, and the child's social worker

The actions described in this protocol may not occur, or may be delayed, if they jeopardize a criminal or child protection investigation

- plan and carry out the investigation according to the Practice Standards for Child Protection, including Risk Decision 5 and Risk Decision 6, if applicable
- complete an immediate safety assessment for each child in the foster home
- notify all relevant delegated staff of the investigation
- prepare both reports of the investigation, including findings, for the protection manager
- meet with the foster parents at the commencement, during, and at the conclusion of the investigation
- in the case of a foster home in a legal relationship with a contracted specialized residential resource, also meet with the contractor at the commencement, during, and at the conclusion of the investigation
- where necessary, complete a comprehensive risk assessment

Manager responsible for the resource

The manager responsible for the resource is consulted by the protection manager about the investigation findings. The main responsibilities of the manager responsible for the resource are to:

- coordinate any alternative interim placements and ensure no further placements are made in the foster home pending the results of the investigation
- at the end of the investigation, in verbal consultation with the foster parents, the resource social worker, the protection manager, and relevant other parties, review the protection investigation report, Risk Decision 5 and Risk Decision 6, if applicable, and the foster family file, and consider what additional supports, services, training or other resources are needed, in order to decide upon the continued use, or closure, of the home
- inform the protection manager of the decision regarding the home for inclusion in the protection manager's letter to the foster parents

Resource social worker

The resource social worker remains the foster parents' social worker throughout the investigative process and assists the foster family by providing information and offering support. The main responsibilities of the resource social worker are to:

- ensure that the foster parents understand the role of the BCFFPA and how to contact the association, and are aware of local and other professional supports available to them
- offer to contact a BCFFPA support worker and/or other support person, with the foster parents' consent, with the consent to be confirmed in writing by the foster parents on the same day
- contact and inform the support person(s) requested by the foster parents when an investigation has begun, and arrange for the support person(s) to understand and sign an oath of confidentiality prepared by the Director prior to the support person's involvement in the protocol process
- meet with the foster parents at the commencement of an investigation
- provide the investigating child protection social worker with relevant information about the foster home
- provide ongoing support throughout the investigation
- at the conclusion of the investigation, meet with and fully discuss the outcome of the investigation with the foster parents; support persons may be included, as requested by the foster parents, as long as they have signed an oath of confidentiality prepared by the Director

Manager responsible for the child

At the conclusion of the investigation, the manager responsible for the child reviews the protocol investigation summary, the child's comprehensive plan of care and any other relevant information. (The decision about the child's safety is made by the protection manager.)

If the protection manager decides the child is to remain in the home, the manager responsible for the child considers what additional supports, services, training, or other resources are needed, taking into consideration the child's need for permanent stability, the child's best interests, and the child's rights (under Section 70 of the Child, Family and Community Service Act).

Child's social worker

The child's social worker maintains contact with the child throughout the investigation. The main responsibilities of the child's social worker are to:

- support the child throughout the investigation, and prepare and assist the child in the case of a placement change or any other changes in the child's comprehensive plan of care
- subject to consultation with the child in care who is over the age of 12 years (and whose consent is obtained as appropriate), and if the child's parent or designated representative of the child's aboriginal community is currently involved with the child, keep the child's parent and designated representative of the child's aboriginal community informed about the investigation results and involved in any changes in plans for, or placement of, the child
- provide the investigating child protection social worker with relevant information about the child's history
- involve the child and ensure the child's views are taken into consideration in any contemplated planning or placement changes and communicate related decisions to the child and, as applicable, the child's parent, relevant delegated staff and others involved with the child

- maintain confidentiality regarding information about the foster parents, foster parents' family and/or children in care

BCFFPA Provincial Executive Director

The BCFFPA provincial Executive Director provides consultation and direction to the BCFFPA support worker on a case-by-case basis as required. If the BCFFPA's involvement has been requested, the Executive Director is involved where a review proceeds to the Office of the Director of Child Protection.

Specialized Residential Resource Contractor

The role of the contractor is to facilitate the investigation. The main responsibilities of the contractor are to:

Note: The specialized residential resource contractor DOES NOT participate in the investigation process or interviews, but may be interviewed separately

Stage 1: Assessment of the report

Any report that a child in care has been or is likely to be abused or neglected while placed in the care of a foster parent is referred to the regional child protection manager for assessment to determine whether this protocol applies. Concerns about the quality of care a child is receiving, that do not otherwise concern abuse or neglect of the child, do not require assessment by the protection manager. (See Protocol for Reviewing Quality of Care Concerns in Foster Homes, page 17.)

    - Upon completing Risk Decision 5, determines the need for, and extent of, Risk Decision 6 (develops a risk reduction service plan) on a case-by-case basis, if the decision is made to continue to use the home
  - If the decision is to not investigate, within 7 days advises the foster parents, the child's social worker, and the resource social worker in writing of the report

II. Protocol for Reviewing Quality of Care Concerns in Foster Homes

This protocol sets out the procedure for reviewing concerns over the quality of care a child is receiving in a foster home, where the child's safety is not at issue.

The expectation of the Ministry for Children and Families is that the care a child receives in a foster home will meet the Standards for Foster Homes and conform to the individual child's comprehensive plan of care. Whenever a quality of care concern arises, the involved social workers identify and assess the concern, gather relevant information from files and interviews, develop a plan to address the concern, and meet with the foster parents, and the child, where appropriate, to discuss the plan. A quality of care concern may come from ministry staff, a child in care or his or her advocate, or others familiar with the child.

This protocol is initiated whenever:

- there is any concern about the quality of care a child is receiving in a foster home that is not a concern about the child's need for protection
- the protection manager has determined, after receiving and assessing a report alleging abuse or neglect of a child in care, that an investigation is NOT required
- the Office of the Director of Child Protection requests a quality of care review following a Reportable Circumstance or other concern brought to the Director's attention

Examples of issues or concerns to which this protocol applies include but are not limited to:

- any concern about the home's adherence to the ministry's Standards for Foster Homes
- any concern about a child's rights
- the methods used to discipline a child (that have already been determined not to be abuse or neglect)
- any concern related to access to the child in care by friends or members of the child's natural family

Where resources are available, translation services should be obtained to assist participants who have difficulty understanding spoken or written English.

Note that at any time, foster parents may request a review by the Ombudsman of any matter dealt with under this protocol.

Application of the protocol

This protocol applies to foster homes approved by a director designated under Section 91 of the Act where the caregiver resides in the care setting and has no more than one full-time equivalent employee.

Note that this protocol does not apply to sub-contracted foster homes.

Stage 1: Assessment of the quality of care concern

In the course of a quality of care review, if there is any concern that a child has been or is likely to be abused or neglected, the concern must be referred to the protection manager for assessment under the Protocol for Investigating Reports of Abuse or Neglect in Foster Homes.

Either the child's social worker or the resource social worker may have or receive a quality of care concern.

III. Protocol for Resolving Issues Between Foster Parents & Ministry Staff

The purposes of this protocol are to ensure that:

- issues between the Ministry for Children and Families and foster parents are resolved quickly and, wherever possible, locally
- foster parents receive the support or help they need to resolve these issues.

Many issues can be resolved without a formal procedure by maintaining clear, open communication and regular contact between foster parents and delegated staff. This protocol may be used wherever a difference of opinion that affects foster parents requires a formal resolution, and where the child's safety is not at issue.

Examples of issues that may be resolved by the use of this protocol include, but are not limited to:

- a decision to close a foster home
- services and supports provided to the foster parents
- services expected to be provided by the foster parents

Three categories of issues cannot be dealt with by this protocol:

- ? Where the foster parents disagree with a decision made as the result of an investigation conducted under the Protocol for Investigating Reports of Abuse or Neglect in Foster Homes. In these cases, the foster parents may ask for the decision to be reviewed by the Office of the Director of Child Protection. See Stage 5 on page 14 for the procedure to follow in these cases.
- ? Where an issue is raised by a child in care. Depending upon the nature of the issue, it may be dealt with under the Protocol for Reviewing Quality of Care Concerns in Foster Homes or the ministry's internal complaint process, or the child may be referred to:
  - the Child, Youth and Family Advocate
  - the Children's Commissioner
  - the Ombudsman's Office
- ? Where an issue is raised on behalf of a child in care. Depending upon the nature of the issue, it may be dealt with under the Protocol for Reviewing Quality of Care Concerns in Foster Homes or the ministry's internal complaint process, or the person may contact:
  - the Child, Youth and Family Advocate
  - the Children's Commissioner
  - the Ombudsman's Office

Note that at any time, foster parents may request a review by the Ombudsman of any matter dealt with under this protocol.

Application of the protocol

This protocol applies to foster homes approved by a director designated under Section 91 of the Act where the caregiver resides in the care setting and has no more than one full-time equivalent employee.

This protocol does not apply to sub-contracted foster homes.

When following this protocol:

If the issue to be resolved is between the foster parents and their current resource social worker, another resource social worker is assigned to provide support to the foster parents for the duration of this protocol.

Where resources are available, translation services should be obtained to assist participants who have difficulty understanding spoken or written English.

Local Resolution Process (recommended But optional)

Step 1: Preliminary local meeting

Social workers and foster parents are expected to make every effort possible to resolve issues and concerns that arise. Before either party proceeds to step 2 of this process (below), a preliminary local meeting may be requested.

Foster parents or delegated staff	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>■ Either the foster parents or an involved social worker may call a meeting, to be coordinated by the resource social worker;<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- foster parents may ask for a BCFFPA support person and/or other support person to attend the meeting</li><li>- social workers may ask their supervisor or others involved with the child or the foster home to attend the meeting</li></ul></li></ul>
Resource social worker	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>■ Sets up and convenes a meeting within 10 days of receiving the request</li><li>■ Advises the relevant supervisors about the issue and the meeting</li><li>■ Within 7 days of the meeting, sends written confirmation of the agreed-upon plan to address the issue to the foster parents and involved social workers</li></ul>

Step 2: Meeting with the manager responsible for the resource

---

A meeting with the manager responsible for the resource may be requested whenever a preliminary local meeting has failed to produce agreement or where the foster parents are dissatisfied with the outcome of a quality of care review (see page 21). The purpose of this step is to ensure that a manager within the program has assessed and attempted to reach a local resolution of the issue.

Manager responsible for the resource	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>■ Receives notice from either the foster parents or delegated staff of an issue that requires resolution. The notice identifies the issue(s) and possible resolution</li><li>■ Immediately advises the foster parents, resource social worker, and relevant supervisors, as appropriate</li></ul>

BCFFPA support worker	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>■ If requested by the foster parents:<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- provides support and participates with the foster parents in reaching a resolution with delegated staff</li><li>- supports the foster parents in following through on any commitments they made at the meeting</li></ul></li></ul>
Child's social worker	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>■ When the issue relates directly to a child in care:<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- where appropriate, notifies the parent apparently entitled to custody</li><li>- if the child is aboriginal, where appropriate, informs the child about his or her right to have support from the designated representative of the child's aboriginal community</li></ul></li></ul>

FORMAL RESOLUTION PROCESS
